THE APOSTLE ISLANDS sit like jewels scattered off the tip of Wisconsin's Bayfield Peninsula. Their bedrock foundation formed about 1 billion years ago during an arid and barren period. Windswept sand blanketed the landscape as massive desert sand dunes. Today the islands are the remnants of these fossilized dunes, now partly submerged. The red sandstone cliffs, so beautifully sculpted by Lake Superior, trace out layers of sand that were deposited and preserved so many years ago.

Piping plover on Devil's Island.
