DIRECTORY OF WISCONSIN MINERAL PRODUCERS, 1968

Preface

The Directory of Wisconsin Mineral Producers lists, insofar as they are known, the names, addresses, and pit, quarry, mine, plant, or mill locations of mineral producers and the quantity and value of minerals produced in Wisconsin. It is intended for the use of the mineral industry, State and other government agencies, planners, teachers, students, and other interested parties.

The Directory was compiled principally by the U.S. Bureau of Mines. The Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey in cooperation with the Wisconsin Department of Transportation extended the information. The cooperation of the mineral industry in providing the basic data is gratefully acknowledged.

Mineral producers are listed alphabetically and by counties and commodities. The quantities and values of commodities mined and types of operations are indicated where known except for certain counties for which data was withheld to avoid disclosing individual company confidential information.

The U.S. Bureau of Mines reports that Waukesha, Lafayette, Milwaukee, Marathon, and Dane counties led in mineral production in 1968 and accounted for 36 percent of the State total. Eighteen counties had mineral production of over $1 million. Only Menominee County did not report mineral production for 1968.

The total value of minerals produced in Wisconsin in 1968 was $71,695,000 of which 90 percent was from nonmetallic minerals and 10 percent from metallics. Sand and gravel was the major nonmetallic mineral commodity and accounted for 43 percent of the total value produced. Stone, both crushed and dimension, was a close second and accounted for 35 percent of the total value. Clays, lime, peat, abrasive stone, cement, and gem stones accounted for 12 percent. The only metals produced were zinc and lead.

Demand for construction materials is expected to increase and probably to double by the year 2000 while the demand for all mineral commodities will increase. Existing sources cannot supply anticipated needs. Exploration and development of new deposits will and must increase.

The Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey has a long history of geologic mapping and research which has stimulated exploration and development by private interests. Completion of a compilation entitled "Precambrian Geology of Wisconsin" by C.E. Dutton and R.E. Bradley (publication due September 1970), preliminary work done on industrial sand resources by M.E. Ostrom (publication scheduled for Fall 1970), and a geochemical study of spring waters in the Zinc-Lead District of Southwestern Wisconsin by G. deGeoffroy (Survey Inf. Circ. #10) are recent Survey projects which have stimulated new mineral exploration in Wisconsin.

The Directory is incomplete in many details which is why all readers, especially mineral producers, are encouraged to communicate any errors, corrections, or additions to the Geology Division, Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey, 1815 University Avenue, Madison, Wis., 53706. The last page of this publication is a tear-out form which can be used for this purpose. With your cooperation and comments future editions will be made more useful.
